

My kids and I listen to klove station all the time. There are plenty of junk stations to listen to, but not much choice in are small community of good quality, family valued stations to choose from. please reconsider your decision, i know there are many families in this community that support and enjoy klove. As Christians, wanting to raise our children in a Christian surrounding and values is getting harder and harder to do in our great land that was to always be one nation under GOD. Besides providing great music, no advertising, the many programs that are part of klove provide guidance, help, and support to many families.
